Do I have to do them all to earn full credit? No! If a problem has parts a-d and you can easily do the first few, then move on to something new and more challenging. Be sure to work on problems of all types, because that's what you will see on the exam. The more problems you work on, the higher your midterm score will be, so that is your motivation for working on textbook problems! For hand-written work, students need to do at least 35 problems for full credit. You are expected to use the SSM to self-grade your hand-written work, and it should not be error-free or without corrections! Students who simply copy answers from the Solutions Manual and submit them as their own work will not earn credit on this assignment. In WileyPLUS, there are over 350 points that can be earned (~2 points per problem). A WileyPLUS score of 70 or higher will earn full homework credit. Partial homework credit will be given for scores below 70 (60 = 6 points, etc.).
