

For an aldol condensation conducted with NaOH in water, which of the following steps is likely for the mechanism to lose water?

